Users acknowledge that the TWK Agri website may be unavailable due to updates or other causes beyond the reasonable control of TWK Agri, including, but not limited to virus infection, unauthorised access, power failure or other “acts of God.”

The Promotion of Access to Information Act No. 2 of 2000 (“the/this Act”), was enacted to give effect to section 32 of the constitution that is giving effect to the constitutional right of access to any information held by the State and any information that is held by another person and that is required for the exercise or protection of any rights. Where a request is made in terms of this Act, the private or public body to which the request is made is obliged to release the information, except where the Act expressly provides that the information must not be released. The Act sets out the requisite procedural issues attached to such request.

Section 32 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, No. 108 of 1996 provides that everyone has the right of access to:

- any information held by the state; and
- any information that is held by another person and that is required for the exercise or protection of any rights.

Download the TWK Agri Information Manual, should you wish to obtain any information you think we might have on you or your business, and follow the steps to obtain such information.

WHO MAY REQUEST INFORMATION IN TERMS OF THE ACT

Any person, who requires information for the exercise or protection of any rights, may request information from a private body. Section 50 of the Act states that a requester must be given access to any record of a private body if:

- that record is required for the exercise or protection of any rights;
- that person complies with the procedural requirements in this Act relating to a request for access to that record; and
- access to that record is not refused in terms of any ground for refusal contemplated in Chapter 4 of this Part.
